

Closed hearings to be held in Brisbane

22 November 2012

The Queensland Child Protection Commission of Inquiry will hold closed hearings in the Brisbane Magistrates Court from Tuesday 27 November to Thursday 29 November 2012.

The hearings, which will be closed to the public, will call witnesses who have personal experience in the child protection system. This will include young people who have been in the care of the state along with parents of children currently in care and foster carers.

These hearings are being held in a closed court environment due to the sensitive nature of the material being discussed and as such the proceedings will not be live streamed.

The Commission will also sit on Monday 26 November to tender exhibits relating to Term of Reference 3(e). No witnesses will be called at this time. These proceedings will be live streamed on the Commission website.
